'Wh' questions and speech therapy - Bilingualistics

Asking and answering WH (who, what, where, when, why, how) questions can be difficult for many children who have a development language disorder (DLD). In fact, answering WH questions is a VERY COMMON goal for many children. However, there isn't a lot of guidance on how to teach the skill besides using visual cue cards.

WH words are harder to understand than Nouns and Verbs, but I didn't know why. (Pun intended!) In search of an answer, I interviewed Dr. Rich Katz, a who pioneered research into Aphasia therapy software and particularly on WH questions. He developed the first software program to work on WH questions.

If you are a family or educator with a toddler or young child then you have come to the right place. This book will teach you how to convert play and everyday routines into activities that are both fun AND beneficial for a child's speech and language development. With little tweaks to your interactions and the everyday routines you are already engaging in, you can increase opportunities for learning and growth for your child. This best part is it's not a lot of extra work. In the Playing With Purpose book you will learn:
